

DEAR EDUCATOR,

September 17 is an important day in the history of the United States. The U.S. Constitution is the foundation of the government of the United States and the freedoms we as Americans enjoy today. It is critical that we not lose sight of that.

Constitution Day is a great opportunity for us to teach Idaho's students about this living document. We must commemorate this day and educate Idaho's students about the history, the importance and the current applications the U.S. Constitution has today.

Please use this pamphlet as a resource while preparing for Constitution Day at your school. Thank you for your continued dedication to the students in Idaho. Please contact the Idaho State Department of Education if you need further assistance.

Sincerely,

Tom Luna
Superintendent of Public Instruction

CONSTITUTION DAY

September 17th

In 2004, the United States Congress passed Public Law 108-447, requiring that “Each educational institution that receives Federal funds for a fiscal year shall hold an educational program on the United States Constitution on September 17 of such year for the students served by the educational institution.”

Idaho’s legislators recognized the importance of understanding the United States Constitution as a living document and its impact in our everyday lives by adopting Idaho Code 33-1602, “instruction in the Constitution of the United States shall be given in all elementary and secondary schools.”

Additionally, Idaho Code 73-108B identifies that “September 17 shall be designated as constitutional commemorative day.”

The U.S. Department of Education announced in May 2005, that all local education agencies receiving federal funds, including NCLB and IDEA, must teach about the U.S. Constitution on September 17th of each year.

The following list of available resources may be useful in helping to design an instructional program for Constitution Day.

AVAILABLE RESOURCES

The Bill of Rights Institute has developed a free package of educational and programming materials to help teachers observe Constitution Day. Lessons focus on the exceptional nature of the American Constitution and challenge students to reflect on the meaning of the Preamble. www.BillofRightsInstitute.org/ConstitutionDay

The University of Idaho School of Journalism & Mass Media, with support from the Idaho Humanities Council, offers free teaching materials plus a streaming video of the original readers’ theater play written for Constitution Day titled, “A Peculiar Evil: A History of Silencing Expression in America.” The play is a dramatization of five key events in history, using word-for-word excerpts from cases tried in the U.S. Supreme Court. <http://www.uidaho.edu/class/constitutionday>

Constitutional Rights Foundation provides programs and materials for teachers, students and citizens to learn about the importance of active participation in a democratic society. <http://www.crfusa.org/constitution-day/constitution-day.html>

Constitutional Sources Project (ConSource) is a free online library of constitutional history connecting students and teachers to the creation, ratification, and amendments by providing free educational resources. <http://www.consource.org>

The Idaho Secretary of State provides instruction on how officials are elected and the importance of voting. For educators, an extensive list of teaching and internet resources is provided. www.sos.idaho.gov

Lawyers in the Classroom encourages and prepares lawyers and teachers to work together to teach students about the law and citizen-ship. Attorneys are available to speak on Constitution Day.
